Where our graduates are working

COVID-19 impacted preferred locations for job acceptance this year. 100% of survey respondents indicated they were working virtually this year; with many expecting to transition to in-person in the near future. Although grads were working virtually this year, these are the top regions for job acceptance.

Our graduates' salaries

UMSI salaries are competitive and are reported at the top of national salaries in comparative career fields and industries. Our graduates' salaries hold one of the highest rankings according to the Library Journal salary report. Because salaries vary by degree program, industry/sector, and geographic region, specific salary outcomes by academic programs are available in the program-specific employment reports.
