

THE SCHOOL OF INFORMATION

The University of Michigan School of Information (UMSI) explores the relationship between people, information and technology. Because information is all-pervasive, UMSI's programs are broadly interdisciplinary. The faculty come from many fields, from computer science to law to social networking to public health. UMSI educates students at the undergraduate, master's and doctoral levels to become information professionals and conduct research on the role of information technology in society. The 2024–25 academic year enrollment was 472 Bachelor of Science in Information (BSI) students, 580 Master of Science in Information (MSI) students, 78 Master of Health Informatics (MHI) students, 548 Master of Applied Data Science (MADS) students and 122 Doctor of Philosophy in Information (PhD) students.

MARTA REY BABARRO

Marta Rey Babarro is the Vice President of Research and Insights at Zillow, overseeing Population Science, Behavioral Science, User Experience Research, and Marketing Insights. She earned her Master of Science in Information from the University of Michigan School of Information and is a member of the UMSI Advisory Board. With a background at Google and as the co-founder of the Sprint Academy, a platform introducing innovative work methods for team collaboration and consensus-building, Marta brings creative solutions and a passion for underserved communities to her role. Holding a PhD in Audiovisual Communication, Marta's inclusive leadership style and dedication to driving strategic investments contribute to Zillow's growth. Off-duty, she enjoys savoring delicious food, meaningful conversations, travel, and exploring the arts, drawing inspiration from her Spanish heritage.

THIS IS MY DREAM JOB. I LEAD A TEAM COMBINING UX RESEARCH, BEHAVIORAL SCIENCE, POPULATION SCIENCE AND MARKETING INSIGHTS. WE'RE STUDYING THE FULL USER JOURNEY FROM BRAND AWARENESS, WHICH IS SOMETHING COMPANIES DON'T NORMALLY DO. I DON'T KNOW OF ANYBODY ELSE IN THE INDUSTRY WITH THIS TYPE OF ROLE, AND I ABSOLUTELY LOVE IT.
